

Jesus Christ Brings Peace and Yet Divides
Matthew 10:34-39

How do we make sense of this apparent _____?
Matthew 10:34

Jesus' title from Isaiah's prophecy is the _____ of _____.
Isaiah 9:6

A poor translation in the _____ Version has led to much confusion.
Luke 2:13-14

The right question must be asked: Jesus is the
_____ of _____ to whom?
Luke 2:13-14; John 14:27; Romans 5:1

Jesus is the Prince of Peace _____ to _____ who are in Him.
Philippians 4:7

Every human relationship is either made _____ or _____ because of Jesus.

The most important human relationships are in _____ when Christ enters the _____.
Matthew 10:35-36

This division is the _____ of _____.
Micah 7:5-6

God drew a line in eternity in the first _____ of the _____.
Exodus 20:1-3

_____ knew this principle as stated in the
_____.
Deuteronomy 6:4-5

This was modeled by the _____ whom _____ praised.
Deuteronomy 33:8-9; Exodus 32:26-29

Following Jesus is not always a "_____"
but is sometimes an "_____".
Matthew 10:37; Luke 14:26

Seeking a _____ by pursuing self-interest will not lead to eternal peace.

Jesus uses the phrase "is not _____ of me"
_____ times in this section.
Matthew 10:37, 38

_____ the faith in order to keep peace with someone you love _____ you as a follower of Christ.
1 Corinthians 7:12-13, 15

Death to _____ - _____ for the sake of Christ is an act of death that leads to _____.
Matthew 10:38-39

Clinging to _____ (this life)
leads to the loss of eternal life.
1 John 2:15

Earthly affections must be _____ with
_____.
1 John 2:16-17; Galatians 2:20