Quotes

“Religion, as such, produces a blessing for man, but it does not exist for the sake of man. It is not God who exists for the sake of His creation; the creation exists for the sake of God. For as the Scripture say, He has created all things for Himself.”-Kuyper

“The glory of God is the majesty of God, the sum of His perfections.”-Murray

“God in seeking His glory, seeks the good of His creatures; because the emanation of His glory (which He seeks and delights in, as He delights in Himself and His own eternal glory) implies the communicated excellency and happiness of His creatures...God is their good”-Edwards

“To glorify God ...means simply to...give Him in thought, affection, and devotion the place that belongs to Him.”-Murray

“We glorify God when we are God admirers...to glorify God is to have God-admiring thoughts; to esteem Him most excellent.”-Watson

“Just as the anthem of the seraphim around the throne is one uninterrupted cry of ‘Holy, Holy, Holy!’ so also the religion of man upon this earth should consist in one echoing of God’s glory...The starting point of every motive of religion is God and not man...upon earth also, the church exists merely for the sake of God.”-Kuyper

“It is the highest worship of God to ascribe to Him truthfulness...”-Luther
